Office: Nos. 25 and 27 Fourteenth Street.
FREW & CAMPBELL,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.MONDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1878.
This official count shows that Burr got 5 votes in Hardy county, Thompson 117, and Martin 912. In 1876 Hayes got 144 and Tilden 877.

Mr. Hyde, late editor of the Democratic paper in Preston county, has sold his paper and returned to school in Ohio. This is rather startling news to the Democratic editor seeking light at any stage of his career, and Ohio is the state of all others just now where such an individual should go to get light.

Can Democrats be Dispensed With?
The Chicago and Detroit trade journals just now are engaged in an earnest discussion of the merits and demerits of the "commercial traveler," growing out of the recent action of the Chicago lumber dealers declaring that the system is a positive injury to trade, and that in future they intend to discontinue it. The Chicago Commercial Advertiser commends their resolution, and adds, that "while many of our leading wholesale merchants have abandoned it, nearly all would gladly do so provided the movement could be made general." The Detroit Weekly Price Current, in order to show what the opinion of the leading merchants really is on the subject, refers to the statements of not a few of the principle commercial firms, as published in the New York Bulletin last summer, and supplements these with those of business houses nearer home, of which the following is an epitome:

"Mr. W. G. Smythe, of the Russell &amp; Erwin Manufacturing Co., says: 'The history of all other countries on the subject shows that experience is altogether against the system of commercial travelers being employed.' Mr. George H. Sargent, of the firm of Sargent &amp; Co., and President of the U. S. Commercial Travelers' Mutual Association, says: 'The system will not only have to be continued, but also enlarged and extended.' Mr. E. S. Jaffray, of the firm of E. S. Jaffray &amp; Co., observes that 'the system is in use all over the civilized world and must be followed here if the houses want to do business.' Mr. Evans, of the firm of Evans &amp; Gibbs, says: 'It is a necessary part of our business, and we have never done a peddling business and we don't propose to do it now. Our house cannot afford to send out travelers to canvass for trade when from eight to ten per cent. would have to be added to the cost of the goods.'

DeKoven.
The Rev. Dr. De Koven, whose name is the terror of all low churchmen in the Episcopal body, delivered an address before the Church Congress at Cincinnati on Thursday on the doctrine of Absolution. He is the Pusey of the American church, and is generally supposed to be heading Romewards, although it is but just to him to say that he denies all such imputations on his fidelity to the Episcopal church. He is a bright and scholarly man, and one of two dioceses in the U. S. has already nominated him as their choice for Bishop of their respective dioceses, but unfortunately he has not been able to run the gauntlet of the diocesan committees of the country, and therefore does not yet wear a Bishop's gown. Here is what he said (among other things) on the doctrine of Absolution in his address at Cincinnati:

"God absolves, not the minister; the declaration of pardon is pronounced by the commissioned officer." "The New Testament doctrine of absolution is summed up in the words, 'Whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whosoever sins ye retain, they are retained.' I am perfectly willing to accept these words just as they stand. I do not need for my faith any exposition; they are perfectly clear. They are as clear as those of words of Eucharist, 'Take and eat; this is my body which is given for thee; this is my blood which is shed for thee. Do this in remembrance of me.' But if people say, 'These words are not to be taken literally; there are other things which modify their meaning,' or 'they are impossible; or 'they are contrary to reason,' or the like; and then, if when one attempts in answer to show that they are not contrary to reason, or are not really modified by other statements, they say that he is subtle in dealing in vain logic, or in opposition to science, or in scholastic trifling,—all I can say in reply is what a great writer has said: 'When men say this is not literally true because it is impossible, then they force us to explain how it is literally true to explain how, according to their notions, it is not impossible, and those who ask hard questions must expect hard answers.'"

The carnal mind will say that this is not very clear. It seems to mean pretty much all that Rome teaches on the same subject. The Roman Church does not claim that the priest forgives sins, but only, as DeKoven puts it, that he acts as "the commissioned officer" of the Almighty in pronouncing absolution. If this, therefore, is the best that Dr. DeKoven can do towards clearing away the mist that surrounds his position, and that of suspected churchmen like himself, he has not much right to complain of what has been charged against him.

Over the River News.
The total vote of Belmont county this year is 8,880, against 9,154 in '77, and 10,044 in '76.
Hon. John A. Bingham will sail from Japan for his home in Harrison county on the 25th of this month.

The Bellaire Photograph compares the Akron sensation to Della Duval's tricks a couple of years ago in Colerain town, and says that all the fools are not yet dead.

Just two tickets to the Cincinnati excursion were sold in Bellaire.

Bellefonte had her first colored jury last week. It was a case tried before a Justice of the Peace.

On Thursday the wind blew the water in the river over to the West Virginia side to such an extent that the end of the pipe through which the rolling mill draws its supply was left on dry ground, and, as the engines had to stop, the mills were obliged to shut down.—Bellaire Photograph.

An organization calling itself the Marietta Shade Tree Association was perfected at Marietta last week, with stock taking amounting to over $1,000. It has for its object the improvement of the streets of that city by planting the best forest and shade trees and following up planting with regular watering, thereby assuring their growth.

The Directors of the Street Railway have ordered their drivers to stop running the cars when the ferry quays at 7 o'clock.

FRANK BURR.
The Defeated Candidate in the Second, W. Va., District.
Washington City Republic.
The following are Col. Frank Burr's views of West Virginia and Greenbackism:
Encountering Col. Frank Burr, yesterday morning, looking as fresh as if he had not just been defeated for Congress, a representative of the Republic remarked that he had seen it stated in the New York papers that the Greenback party had collapsed.
"Collapsed?—h!" replied the genial Frank.
"What! don't you think it petered out in October?"
"Why, over in West Virginia, the Greenbackers have carried one district in which there were seven thousand Democratic majority two years ago. In my district they polled an immense vote for a d-d old fool, and they would have polled just as big a vote for the devil himself. There was Boyd Faulkner had 1,300 Democratic majority in his Senatorial district. Yet the Greenbackers brought that down to nearly nothing, notwithstanding that Boyd had all the votes of the district, and all the family working for him. Collapsed! Why, if the Democratic candidates hadn't been soft-money men the Greenbackers would have carried the State by ten thousand majority."As the Parkersburg Sentinel would say, Burr was a little "previous" in announcing the election of a Greenbacker to Congress in the Third District. Walker says, 3,000 of the requisite vote to go Congress from that district, notwithstanding Tom Swann's immense influence and the failure of the Republicans to make a nomination.
Stenboville News.
The Herald of Saturday evening came out for John Sherman as the Republican Presidential candidate in 1880.
Wheat is down to 80 cents in Stenboville, and the Gazette charges it to the Glasgow failure. Why not to Sherman as usual?
Diphtheria prevails in the city to a considerable extent.
Now let us agitate a sewage system for Stenboville. We need sewers bad enough, and as the city is in good financial condition, now would be a good time to put in sewers.—Gazette.The following is an approximate statement of the results in the operations of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati & St. Louis Railway Company for the nine months ending September 30, 1878:
Gross earnings (including interest received on equipment hired), January 1 to October 1, 1878, $2,336,530.
Expenses (including interest on car trust and rent of Monongahela extension), for same period, 1,477,577.
Net earnings, $858,953.
The interest on the bonds for these nine months, $3,000,000 Stenboville and Indianapolis Railroad 7 per cent., $155,000.
$750,000 Stenboville and Indianapolis Railroad 7 per cent., 40,867.
$625,000 Cincinnati and Cleveland and St. Louis Railway 7 per cent., 326,635.
Total, $502,342.Surplus, $256,610.
The financial exhibit of Jefferson county for the year ending September 1, 1878, takes up four and a half columns of Saturday's Herald. No wonder the advertising expenses were $2,642.84. Besides this, there were $1,486.00 expended for printing and stationery, making a total of $4,129.84, as against a total in this county of $1,025.15. Here the printing expenses were $886.47 and for stationery $138.68.A Plan to make Wages a First Lien for Work Done.
INDEPENDENCE, Preston Co., W. Va., October 18th, 1878.I have just commenced a movement here, in which I hope to enlist your aid, and that of all other good and influential men in this State. I have prepared a petition to the Legislature, reciting that, under the present laws of this State, it is difficult, and often impossible, for a laboring man to collect his wages by process of law; particularly in cases where large numbers of laboring men are employed, and the employer meets with reverses and fails.
Your petitioners do therefore pray, that the interest of those who must depend upon their daily earnings for daily bread be remembered, and that such a law be passed as will fully protect them.Everyone signs it on sight. In this country, there are thousands of dollars due to laboring men which they will never get, from default in the wages should be a first lien upon the property upon which the work is done. As it now stands, the poor man having no means, comes in last in the list of creditors. Those who have money to spend, get the first chance; and the laboring man, giving the poor man a chance to save his wages by prompt action, at a little cost, is demanded by all laws of right and justice.
I ask you to aid in bringing the subject before the people, and to give your influence in favor of the workmen of this State. We have had many large promises before elections, let us try to see if we can realize something tangible from them.
Having nothing means no influence. No man can urge the subject upon the attention of those who have both. It surely needs, or ought to need, nothing more to enlist the sympathy of all good men.
C. JESSON.Ironing Iron News.
A long and well written letter from the pen of E. J. Bird, manager of Belmont furnace, appears in the Iron Age of October 10th. It is upon "The working of fine and wet ores blast furnaces, and the construction of the latter."
It is estimated that the ore lands of Belmont furnace contain sufficient ore to do the company five hundred years. Less would do.

There is no change to note in prices of metal. There is a feeling of firmness among holders. Some of the furnaces have sold away ahead.

Monitor furnace is making ten tons of good cold-blast daily.
The Lawrence mill is waiting for the river to rise before going into operation. If the river don't rise pretty soon the mill will start anyhow.
Bellefonte mill is running full tilt.
A meeting of the stockholders and bondholders of the Iron and Steel Works is called for the 25th, to consider future plans.Colonel Ben to Go Up Higher.
This is the way the Wetzel county Democrat figures it out:
"The Democracy of the First Congressional District will re-elect Ben Wilson to Congress in two years, and then put him in the place of H. G. Davis in the United States Senate."

You are most too "previous," friend.—Parkersburg Sentinel.

Excursion to Richmond, Va.—The Chesapeake &amp; Ohio Railroad is advertising an excursion to Richmond, to attend the Virginia State Fair. The tickets for the round trip are $6, and are good only in the Chesapeake excursion coaches which leave Huntington at 6:30 p. m. Monday, October 28th. The tickets are good for return on any train for ten days thereafter.

Tux per capita of intoxicating liquors consumed in this country last year, was $13 for every man, woman and child in the land. There's a per capita that has something to do with the hard times.

Visit by a Gracious Man to Blennerhassett Island.
GRAFTON, W. VA., Oct. 19th, 1878.
Editors Intelligencer:
While in Parkersburg recently I concluded I would go and see this historic place. I had only to make my desire known to Mr. R. J. A. Boreman, of Parkersburg, to have my wish gratified. He being a member of a boat club had access to their boat house, where we found a trim little two-oared boat, and with Mr. McConaghey, of Gilmer county, we started. Bob agitated the stern oars and your correspondent the forward ones.

As the island is only a mile or two below Parkersburg we soon found ourselves there. The first thing we noticed was an artificial lake near the northern extremity, said to have been made by Mr. Blennerhassett to keep his boats in. It always has water in it. Near the lake stands an immense sycamore; about ten feet from the ground it is divided into two branches; between the branches is growing an elm tree several inches in diameter. The island contains about six hundred and forty acres and is under a high state of cultivation. It is fringed around the shore with sycamore, elm and other trees of huge stature, and judging from their size must have been there when this place was bought by the unfortunate Blennerhassett, and perhaps witnessed the ambitious Burr and the once happy and contented owner arrange their plans and lay their plot, looking to the establishment of a great southwestern empire. We went to look for the remains of the old house, and while on the way met an old colored man driving an old and highly colored cart. Having Mark Twain in my mind I asked the old man if he could tell us where he was and he eyed us sharply as if to see if we were not jesting. As we looked at him he concluded we were asking for information, and replied: "Well Boss I guess de ole man's done gone," "gone," said I, "gone where?" The darkey rolled up his eyes at me and answered, "Well de ole man's gone anywhere, anywhere, anywhere." "Well," said I, "when did the old gentleman move away?" The old man looked rather incredulous, and was inclined to levy, but as we looked reprovingly at him, he straightened up his face and gave us the following information: "Blannerhassett" was dead, in fact had been dead many years. We then inquired about the health of Mrs. B. and the children. This was too much for him, and he gave way to laughter that shook his cart. We expressed our regrets and went on to find the ruins, but no ruins are there. The house was burned during the life time of its owners, and nothing remains to mark the spot but the well, some fifty feet deep, where we found excellent water, and a tree of considerable size, said to have grown from the cellar of the old house after it was burned. The present owner of the island is Mr. Neal, of Parkersburg.

We spent an hour wandering along its lovely shore gathering beautiful varieties of stones, polished like marble by friction, and occasional finding small pieces of petrified wood, fern, etc. It is truly a beautiful place.
We loosed our little boat and were soon back discussing our adventures over one of Andy's little boats, and I may here say in closing that Andy knows how to get up something nice and palatable for a hungry man, and can measure your capacity at a glance. The supply will be equal to the demand.
H.Bellaire Locals.—The Literary Society met on Friday evening, electing a temporary organization by electing J. B. Cash President and Albert Marshall Secretary. The dramatic club continued playing "Aladdin" on an early day.
The Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society have a meeting next Saturday, October 26, at 2:30 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. C. C. Cratty. They intend to send a box of clothing to a missionary named Skews.
The first quarterly meeting of the present Conference year of the M. E. Church will be held next Saturday and Sunday. The Presiding Elder, Rev. Carr, cannot be in attendance, but will send some one as a supply.
Shipments of stock from the B. & O. stock yards for the week ending Saturday, October 19th: Ten car-loads of hogs, six of cattle, one of horses, and three of sheep.
Rev. J. M. Yarnall, of Barnesville, Ohio, was in the city on Saturday night, being on his way from Martin's Ferry, where he was assisting to conduct a teachers examination on that day.Miss Wilkinson, of Lewis' Mills, is visiting her friends, Miss Emma Gill and the Miss Gorbys.
The jewelry vendors took their departure Sunday morning, having sold $3,500 worth (?) of jewelry, and yet money is scarce. At this rate it will be much scarcer ere the winter passes.
Well-Toned Systems.
Systems toned and renovated with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are most effectively defended from disease. That supreme invigorant soon overcomes that distressing feature consequent upon ailments which impoverish the blood and relax the muscles. Vigor, appetite, sleep return to the wasted frame, and every physical faculty gains greater activity through its benign influence. Nor is this all, for the Bitters have a most genial and cheering effect upon the mind of the despondent invalid, which is the natural effect of the increased bodily vitality which they produce. Nervous symptoms disappear in consequence of the use of this medicine, and the evil consequences sure to result from a premature decay of the physical energies are averted. Dyspepsia, liver complaints, rheumatic ailments, urinary and uterine irregularities, malarial diseases, and many other disordered conditions of the system, are remedied by the Bitters.TRAVELERS' GUIDE.
